Standing on Second

On November 1, 2005, a statue was unveiled in front of a Brooklyn ballfield, KeySpan Park, where the Mets' Class A Cyclones play. The statue was not of a general on a horse, or a politician holding the constitution, but of two long-ago baseball players -- Jackie Robinson and Pee Wee Reese, of the Brooklyn Dodgers. The statue shows Reese's arm around Robinson's shoulder.

In 1947, Jackie Robinson was the first African American to play major league baseball. While breaking baseball's "color barrier," he faced jeering crowds, death threats, heckling, and taunts in every stadium. One day, while playing in his home stadium in Brooklyn, he committed an error. His own fans began to ridicule him. He stood at second base, humiliated, while the fans jeered.

The shortstop, "Pee Wee" Reese came over and stood next to him. He put his arm around Jackie Robinson and faced the crowd. The fans grew quiet. Robinson later said that arm around his shoulder saved his career. In the biography "Jackie Robinson" by Arnold Rampersad, Robinson himself recalled the incident this way: "Pee Wee' kind of sensed the sort of helpless, dead feeling in me and came over and stood beside me for a while. He didn't say a word, but he looked over at the chaps who were yelling at me and just stared. He was standing by me, I could tell you that." In 1997, Reese told The New York Times: "Something in my gut reacted at the moment. Something about what? The unfairness of it? The injustice of it? I don't know."

We've all been there, I suppose – standing in need of someone to face our problems with us. And I also believe we've all been there for that one who needed the encouraging arm around the shoulder. The apostle Paul wrote in Galatians 6:1-2, "Brethren, if a man is overtaken in any trespass, you who are spiritual restore such a one in a spirit of gentleness, considering yourself lest you also be tempted. Bear one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ." There are those who need us now. People all around us are hurting in different ways. At this time some are struggling financially. An elderly couple may need someone to pick up groceries for them. Others may simply need a phone call and someone to talk to. Those caught in sins and weaknesses need us, and we all need each another. Will you reach out to someone this week?

There is surely someone standing on second base, needing a friend. Phillip

Barrier's Blog

This week I am going to use the blog to go over the outline from my sermon this past Sunday. It's very important to be reminded of the devastating effects making excuses towards God has on Christians. I hope this lesson is a helpful reminder about why we shouldn't be "excuse makers".

In Luke 14:16-24 we have the parable of The Great Supper. A great supper has been prepared and the table has been set. The Bible says a certain man sent his servant to invite the ones he wanted to attend. Every last person had an excuse not to attend the party! The master then sends his servant to invite all of the poor and lowly, these invitees don't make excuses when invited, and the table still has seats even with all of those in attendance.

In This parable we learn a few things about excuses.

1. Excuses are just that, excuses, not legitimate reasons.
2. Excuses close the doors on opportunities.
3. Excuses can lead to an empty plate (spiritually speaking, Luke 14:24).
4. The invitation of God is open ended and the seats at the table never fill up (there is always room for more, Luke 14:23).

Are you making excuses in your relationship with God?

We look forward to seeing you Sunday! In Him, Todd
