SPIRITUAL OVERTIME begins this Sunday Evening. Please plan to stay for 30 minutes of singing.

Today we finish up our series on what it takes to be a good neighbor. Over the last several weeks we have looked at the story of the Good Samaritan and tried to answer the question that was asked to Jesus that initiated the story "who is my neighbor?". We wanted to dig even deeper and ask what it takes to be a good neighbor. So far we have looked at things like compassion, not ignoring or denying someone's needs and not having pre-set qualifications on our willingness to help those in need. The last two things we will see today may be the toughest. For us to be a good neighbor to all of those around us we must take risks and sacrifice. In Luke 10 we read that the Samaritan sacrificed his time, effort and safety to help the man (he didn't know if the robbers would attack him as well). He also spent his money on the man and even offered the innkeeper more money when he came back if the man spent more than he left. When we have the opportunity to help it's not always going to be in a pretty little package wrapped in a bow and ready for us to easily be involved in and get out of quickly. Sometimes it may be spur of the moment, risky, costly and unpleasant. However a good neighbor must be able to look past it and take action. So to be a good neighbor we must have compassion, cross social barrier's, take risks, sacrifice, spring into action, look past qualifiers and not ignore the needs of others. In Luke 10:37 after Jesus had explained that the true neighbor was the one who had mercy on the needy, he simply explained to us our mission...go and do likewise. Are you a good neighbor?

In Him, Todd

UPDATED FORMS

If you didn't get a form to update your contact and involvement information, please check the tables at each entrance, the Gathering and Commons Areas.

Please do not assume we have all your information.

Important: We understand if you are not able to help in work areas, but we need your address, phone numbers, email, birthdate & anniversary. We need these dates for our records and our Birthday/Anniversary calendars. (We will not publish or give out your age without permission.) Thank you for your cooperation.
