Soaking Up Summer, Looking To Fall

Summer is a wonderful time of year. Families take vacations, children attend camps, grandparents visit loved ones, and many enjoy opportunities that simply do not fit into the busyness of the rest of the year. These moments are gifts from God, and I love seeing our church family make memories together.

At the same time, summer has a unique feeling in the life of a congregation. Each week, it seems that a different group of people is away. One family is traveling, another is visiting relatives, and another is attending a special event. While attendance may remain strong, there is a sense that part of the family is always missing.

I find myself looking forward to the fall. Not because summer is bad, but because fall often brings a return to familiar routines. School resumes, schedules become more predictable, and week by week our church family begins to gather together more consistently. There is something special about looking across the auditorium and seeing the faces that have been scattered throughout the summer months.

That feeling reminds me of something even greater. As much as I enjoy those moments when our church family is together, they are only a small glimpse of what God has promised His people. Heaven will be a place where there are no travel schedules, no separations, no goodbyes, and no empty seats. The family of God will be gathered in the presence of the Lord forever.

What a comforting thought. Every reunion we enjoy on earth points us toward the ultimate reunion that awaits the faithful. Until then, we celebrate the blessings of summer, pray for safe travels, and look forward to the joy of being together whenever we can, while keeping our eyes fixed on the day when God's people will be united forever.

-Justin
